Sudden Summons For Jack R. Owings

The sad news that Jack R. Owings had died at the Mary Chiles Hospital last Friday just before noon rapidly spread over our city and cast a deep gloom over the entire population.

Although he had not been in good health for some time, the end coming when it did was entirely unexpected and was a distinct shock to his family and loved ones. It was on the Sunday previous to his death he suffered a fainting spell and was taken to the hospital. He rapidly recovered from this attack, however, and was able to be out and attending to business Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday morning he arose in the best of spirits and apparently without a thought he was soon to be called to face his Maker, walked over to the hospital, where he submitted to a throat operation. He stood the operation splendidly and was thought to be getting along nicely when he suddenly remarked, "I feel like I did Sunday," and without another word he lapsed into unconsciousness, and within a very few minutes the spirit of this noble young man had gone to the God who gave it.

Jack R. Owings was the junior member of the shoe firm of the R. E. Pugh Company and was one of the city's most promising and enterprising young business men. For a number of years he had been afflicted with asthma, and it is thought this malady had so weakened his heart as to cause his death.

In writing a notice of one who crosses the Great Divide, with a newspaper man it becomes much as a matter of routine. But in this particular instance, when one we have known since childhood, one that we have always felt very near to, has been so suddenly called to enter that Heavenly home, our very heart-strings are deeply touched, and words are entirely inadequate.

Jack Owings was a boy of many noble traits of character, being a leader in social circles, he was exceedingly popular with old and young alike as was evidenced by the immense throng that attended his funeral on Sunday afternoon, and also by the numerous and beautiful floral offerings presented to the memory of this beloved young man.

As a neighbor and later as a fellow business man we knew Jack Owings and the life he led. A young man, full of hope and expectancy, one who thoroughly believed in the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," lived a life of cheer and happiness which should be a matter of inspiration and comfort to his loved ones in this sad hour. Jack Owings was only 22 years of age, just in the bud of young manhood, just at an age and in a position when life seemed to hold so much for his future. Under conditions like these we cannot see why—but we can only trust and believe in the words of our blessed Savior, "Some day we will understand."

A life so lived, though nipped in the bud, has enriched the earth—and the clean, straightforward manner in which he spent his brief exist-

Woman In City On a 2,000-Mile Hike

Miss Edith Bull, an employee for six months at the Woolworth 10-cent store in Denver, Colorado, was offered $700 if she would walk from Denver to Richmond, Virginia, a distance of nearly 2,000, in 30 days.

The proffer was accepted and Miss Bull is now en route for her destination, having started April 8. There were rules governing the task, Miss Bull not being permitted a change of raiment for this period; that she should be furnished $25 expense money; that she must not ask assistance; that she could accept proffered conveyance and should make report back to Denver from every town and city of note through which she passed. Lightly clad, wearing low-heeled, thick-soled oxfords, with a small bag containing $25, handkerchiefs and a Bible, Miss Bull began her journey. In Kansas she encountered a snow storm, the snow measuring in some places nearly twelve inches, but, undaunted, she passed on. She accepted a five-mile travel on a railroad, some kind hearts offered rides in autos and others in buggies. She made Louisville to Lexington in a day, leaving Lexington at 9:30 Sunday morning, and arrived in Mt. Sterling at 6:30. She was domiciled at the Bays House where she was cared for as a queen. Monday morning at 8 o'clock she renewed her journey, saying, "I will win the $700, now on deposit in a Richmond, Va., bank."

Miss Bull is 22 years old, handsome, without any surplus flesh, modest and determined. Her mother has been advised that she is coming home, but is not advised as to her mode of travel. Certainly this is an unusually stout and courageous woman. She is an example worthy of emulation.

To the devoted mother and father, loving brother and sisters, we mingle our tears with your tears, our grief with your grief, believing as we do that an All-Wise Father doeth all things well, and we trust you will find surcease from sorrow from the blessed promises of our Lord and Savior.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Owings, one brother, Tom P., of Ashland, and five sisters, Mrs. Henry C. Prewitt, Mrs. Joe T. Wilson, Misses Fannette, Edna D. and Florence Owings, and many other close relatives in this and Clark counties.

Funeral services were conducted at the residence on Winn street Sunday afternoon by Rev. J. S. Wilson, assisted by Rev. Otis Hamilton, with burial in Machpelah cemetery.

Friend, from this earth you are gone, but of your memory time will never erase—and we will live in the hope that we will meet "Over There" and dwell forever in that beautiful city not made by mortal hands.

"His soul to Him, who gave it, rose: God, lead it to its long repose, Its glorious rest!"

And, though the warrior's sun has set,
Its light shall linger 'round us yet,
Bright, radiant, blest."

Locals Lose First Extra Inning Game

In their first extra inning game of the season, the local baseball team of the Blue Grass League met defeat at Lexington Sunday in the twelfth inning by the score of 9 to 8. Fugate started the game for the locals and was taken out in the fourth, mainly on account of errors. Townsend succeeded him and made a favorable impression. The game was featured by errors by both teams, Mt. Sterling being credited with 8 and Lexington 5. Clayton was the chief offender for the local, being credited with 4. The score was 8 to 5 in favor of Lexington in the ninth when Manager Ellis came to bat with two men on and knocked a home run, tying the score. No more scoring was done until the twelfth, when a hit, another error by Clayton and a sacrifice fly allowed Lexington to score the winning run. Lackey, who caught the first game, made a fine showing.

Both Clayton and Hogge have been released by the local club and Manager Ellis left this morning for Portsmouth, where he expects to sign two new infielders.

District Conference of Methodist Church

The Lexington district conference of the M. E. church, South, in session here, made very interesting reports concerning the objects fostered by the churches and which are of much concern. The churches showed activity with encouraging results. The delegation was a good representation from the churches.

Discussions were snappy and in the best spirit, and the meeting, considered from every viewpoint, was helpful, imparting an enthusiastic spirit.

The reports from the pastors embodied the spiritual state of the various charges. The number of family altars, consideration of mission stations, whether others should be established or not, women's missionary societies and their work, the number of churches each pastor serves and if charges are contributors to the various objects fostered by the denomination, whether or not they have home departments, Wesley Bible classes, cradle rolls and teachers' training classes, the work done by the A. B. S. and what support given it, if a Bible depository, the time when the church was canvassed by a colporteur, manner of raising salary and benevolent funds, report on condition of parsonage and church parsonage and if they are insured, number of copies of general and conference, 4; by Townsend, 7; by Walton, 8; by Monhollen, 7; left on bases, Mt. Time, 2 hours and 42 minutes. Umpire, Tribel.

Other Sunday Games
Maysville defeated Cynthiana by the score of 5 to 3 at Maysville in a well-played game, featured by one home run for each team. McDonald and Einemann were the opposing pitchers.

Paris defeated Winchester at Paris by the score of 7 to 6, the opposing pitchers being Moser and McCord for Paris and Travenor and Vandalingham for Winchester. This marks Winchester's third defeat, tying her with Mt. Sterling for the cellar position.

The locals will play at Paris on Thursday and are expected to present a lineup that is calculated to take the Bourbon county boys into camp. Just a little more PEP and team work and we can take the best of 'em. Let's have a little "conversation"—it will add new life and help to produce a winning team.

Fruit Crops Have Escaped Frost Hurt

Reports from all over Central Kentucky and from Eastern Kentucky indicate that the damage from frost of early Sunday morning a week ago was heavier than at first indicated, but the major portion of the fruit crop which was seriously endangered is safe thus far. Fruit and other vegetation in low places suffered most, but that on higher ground escaped practically unharmed, according to reports. The temperature dropped to the vicinity of freezing, and lower in some sections.

The danger from frost is not yet entirely over, however, H. F. Hillenmeyer, veteran Fayette county nurseryman, pointed out Saturday. An examination of his weather and crop records for the last several decades, he said, showed that since 1883 there have been damaging frosts in May 19 times. Twice in that period of time, both times on May 28, there were disastrous frosts, he stated.

Aided, it is hoped, by a continuation of the almost ideal weather of the last several days, farmers of this section this week will launch into the work of preparing ground and planting corn, which, indications are, will be completed before the urgency of setting out tobacco, which will start probably the next two weeks. Most of the oats already have been planted, but that which remains probably will be completed this week. Farmers also are busy preparing the ground for tobacco.

Tobacco plants are showing up exceedingly well, according to reports, considering all circumstances, and should be plentiful and in good condition this year.

The rainfall in April was 6.67 inches, or two inches or more above the normal for this section, and this prevented plowing and preparing the ground. The rains of April 14 packed the ground and difficulty has been experienced getting it into condition. The ground now is cloddy and rough and farmers are experiencing difficulty in preparing good seed beds, according to reports.

The cool weather the first of the week, while interfering with preparation of ground, was valuable in that it aided in the recovery of the plants damaged by the frost. The major work of the next two weeks will be ence organs taken, if the church has a working Epworth League and condition of it, whether the church has a lay leader and committees ordered by general conference, whether or not the church has a candidate for the ministry, and if assistance is needed, what church papers and books are read, whether the church has had a revival and number added, whether the church has gained or lost, if the church is up on finances for various objects, if not, why not? and will the church need outside help?

Such a report came from the pastors and was satisfactory. This was considered a great meeting for this denomination.

May 7 Is Go-To- Sunday School Day

Next Sunday, May 7, will be Kentucky's ninth Go-to-Sunday School Day. It was in Kentucky that this day originated and afterwards spread to all parts of North America, and last year was observed in Brazil in South America. Kentucky's governor was the first governor to ever issue a proclamation inviting all people of the state to attend Sunday School. Each year thousands of people have accepted the invitation and have not only come on this special day, but many of them have become regular members of the Sunday School.

Invitations are being extended by every Sunday School in Kentucky to everybody in the state to come to Sunday School next Sunday. Special programs will be observed in most of the schools. Every one who attends will receive a cordial welcome.

The Kentucky Sunday School Association that has promoted this day for the last ten years has been instrumental in awakening an enthusiasm in the Sunday Schools of Kentucky that makes Kentucky rank near the top in the percentage of the people of the state attending Sunday School, and in the character of the work that is being done by the Sunday Schools. It has not only helped in getting the people to come to Sunday School, but it has also suggested programs for that special day and for the following up the day, and has been the means of placing the Bible in thousands of homes in the state.

The value of such a day as this was recognized by all right thinking citizens of the state. There has been the heartiest co-operation on the part of the editors of the papers; the leaders in Sunday School work of the different denominations; the pastors and superintendents of the churches and Sunday Schools; all who are engaged in educational work and those who are the officers in our state, county and towns. These have all united year after year in emphasizing the great benefit to the people of Kentucky in knowing and obeying the will of God.

There are still hundreds of thousands of people in Kentucky who are not attending Sunday School and church, and an earnest effort is being made to add at least one hundred thousand of these to the permanent membership of the Sunday Schools of Kentucky during 1922.

Farmers in this section are somewhat delayed on account of rain.

During the storm here the past week Joe Thompson's barn was hit by lightning, tearing out a post or two and killing a hog. It also struck L. W. Mallory's house, tearing off some weather boarding and cover foundation post. Mrs. Mallory was shocked, the bolt hitting within four feet of her.

Paris Triumphs In Thursday's Game

In their second game of the season in the Blue Grass League at Paris Thursday, the Mt. Sterling team met defeat to the tune of 6 to 3. A large number of local fans were present for the engagement, which was close and interesting throughout. Warren, a new hurler from Louisville, was in the box for the locals and made a most favorable impression. The team showed up well, but sadly showed lack of "pep" and team work. Barks was at the receiving end for Mt. Sterling and gave a good account of himself. Cole, the first batter up, got a home run. The score by innings follows:

Other Games

On the same day Lexington defeated Cynthiana at Cynthiana by the score of 6 to 1 in a splendidly played game of ball. The opposing pitchers were Monhollen and Gentry and both did excellent work.

Maysville again defeated Winchester at Maysville by the score of 3 to 1 in a pitchers' battle between Shaw and Vallandingham. Maysville scored its three runs in the first inning and only secured three hits in the entire game. Shaw was very effective in the pinches.

High School Wins

On the local grounds Friday afternoon the high school nine defeated the Richmond outfit in a listless seven-inning affair by the score of 7 to 6. The day was a raw one and only a small crowd was present. Davis was on the mound for the locals.

IS THIS TRUE IN YOUR TOWN?

"A man will rarely go to any trouble to make a purchase under twenty-five cents," says Mr. Grege. "A woman will not go to any trouble to make one under ten cents. On these facts a whole new theory of business has been built up. It used to be that the fine, expensive store locations were always taken by the stores that sold high-priced goods. The low-price stores went to the side streets or at least to the middle of the block. Now, in every big town and city, the busiest corners always go to the kind of store where the average sale hardly exceeds twenty-five cents. These stores pay rentals that ten years ago would have been out of the question for any kind of store. The chain cigar and drug stores make money at rental figures that would bankrupt any ordinary kind of store. But you may notice that these rentals are never paid by stores that appeal principally to women.

"Drug stores appeal to both men and women; but, since they are also usually tobacco shops, the major appeal is to men. Cigar stores are, of course, for men. These stores prosper because they are easy to get into, easy to buy in, and easy to get out of. They also have a price appeal, because the more expensive articles can often be bought for a little less in these stores than in those which do not depend upon transient trade. The staple articles running up to about a quarter are sold at much the same price as in most stores. In that case the sales point is convenient."

Tanica is unquestionably the most widely talked of medicine in the world today and those who once use it invariably buy it over and over again and tell their friends of the splendid results they have derived from its use.—Land & Priest.

RAILROADS GROW SAFER

American railroads are safer today—for both the traveler and the employee—than at any time during the past ten years, according to the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which show the following improvements based on the year 1911: Freight traffic, 64.1 per cent increase; passenger mileage, 42.4 per cent increase; fatal injuries, 33.1 per cent decrease.

This is largely due to specialized effort by the railroads to train and educate officers and employees in accident prevention. This training consists not only of careful instructions in the technique of the work to be undertaken, but special effort is being made to induce men to think seriously of the dangers that surround them, and co-operate with superior and subordinate associates so that good influences of precept and example are thrown around those who are careless.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company is prominent in this respect.

A great majority of persons killed or injured were trespassers, very few passengers, and it seems noteworthy that while more than forty-eight million passengers have been handled by the C. & O. during the past six years, not a single passenger has been killed in a collision or a derailment.

SOCIETY WOMEN WHO

SELL OLD CLOTHING

"The practice of selling their cast-off clothing to dealers is very common among New York society women," says Mr. Kosofsky. "I believe that a goodly majority of them follow it; although there are many, of course, who give their discarded apparel to poor relatives or to charitable organizations. But in the last few years I have noticed a tendency toward economy on the part of these ladies. Where they would formerly wear an evening gown, with its accompanying slippers and hose, once or twice, and then discard it, they are likely today to use it several times.

"The average wealthy society woman calls in the second-hand dealer two or three times a season. Almost invariably she sends for him when she returns from Palm Beach, Bermuda, Newport and other winter resorts. Then there is a general clearing out of the apparel she wore when away from town.

"Many wealthy women will not deal directly with the second-hand man. Instead, they send PIA, the French maid, or James, the butler, to do the bargaining. Usually the butler and maid drive better bargains than madame would drive herself."

THE NEXT GOVERNOR

As indicated in a previous editorial, our opinion is that the next governor of Kentucky will be a Democrat if that party nominates the right kind of a man. To name the right kind of a man the Democrats of the state must set aside all self-seeking politicians who want the office and select a high standing, Christian gentleman who is well known throughout the state, who does not seek the office and has to make a surrender of his plans and purposes to accept it.

We have in mind a man who would fill the bill. He would have to be drafted because he would under no circumstances seek the position. He does not care for political preferment. He bought two great newspapers and through them he hopes to be able to help Kentucky.

He has demonstrated his real purposes by the great work he has done for the state. He has not only used his papers but has used his money and given his time and his talent to rescue a great interest of the state from financial ruin and put it on the basis of assured success. He has done more for the agricultural interests of the state than any other individual citizen in all of its history. It is impossible to measure at this time what this public-spirited citizen has achieved for the tobacco interests of Kentucky. He put thousands of dollars out of his own pocket on a project that no other man would undertake. Even he, with his money and his time, could not have accomplished what he has done but from the fact that he used his two newspapers to keep the matter continually before the people until it was accomplished.

He did not do this from his great love for his state. There is no selfishness in it. There was no personal ambition in it. He will continue doing big things like this as long as he lives and his only reward is the satisfaction he has in helping his fellowman.

He has no ambition to be governor or to hold any other office. He is perfectly satisfied with his present endeavor. He is such a public citizen that he could not afford to turn down the Democratic nomination for governor which in his case would be equivalent to an election. He would not resist the draft if his fellow Democrats imposed it on him.

He should be offered the draft as a token of esteem and appreciation by the people. He would be elected by a majority close to 100,000. If he were Republican that party would hand it to him on a silver platter. It is not a question will be take it if he handed to him, but have the Democrats of Kentucky the vision and political sagacity to see his inestimable value to the party as its nominee and his inestimable value to the state as its governor?—Elizabethtown News.

HOW TO HAVE A BEAUTIFUL SKIN

Sometimes you see a girl whose face draws men's eyes like a magnet, and try to discover the reason for her charm. Is it eyes, or hair, the way she dresses, or the things she says or does?

All this is overlooking the one all-compelling beauty all men admire—the irresistible charm of the fresh, clear, smooth complexion which makes even plain features attractive.

There is no need to be envious for you can easily have such a complexion yourself. The secret was known to Cleopatra thousands of years ago. It is daily cleansing.

Cleopatra used Palm and Olive oils for this purpose. Today these same beautifying oils are combined in the mild, lotion-like cleanser—Palmolive Soap. It produces a profuse creamy lather which penetrates every pore and removes every trace of dirt, cream powder and rouge.

Massage the lather thoroughly into your skin, then rinse. Apply a touch of cold cream and if your skin is very dry, rub in a little before washing. This treatment will make your skin fresh as a rose.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first class groceries and drug stores.

MORE FLOWERS IS PLAN IN BEAUTIFYING HOMES

Interest in flowers, vines and shrubs and their usefulness in beautifying homes and the grounds surrounding them continues to increase in Kentucky as the flower planting season advances, according to the gardeners at the College of Agriculture. They have suggested eight varieties of flowers that can be used for cutting bouquets and five varieties of vines that can be used about trellises, side porches or windows for shade.

The flowers together with the color of their blossoms and the blossoming period follow:

Aster, varied colors, July until September; calliopsis, yellow, orange and brown, June until September; chrysanthemums, varied colors, August until October; cosmos, white, pink and red, August until frost; gypsophila or baby's breath, white, June until September; poppy, white, yellow and orange, May until September; shasta daisy, white, August until frost, and scabiosa, white, purple, black, blue and rose, July until frost.

The canary bird vine is one of the popular varieties used for shading purposes around windows and side porches. It has a canary-yellow flower that blooms from June until frost. The cardinal climber has a scarlet flower that blooms from July until frost while the moon flower has white or blue blossoms that are out from August until frost. The morning glory has mixed colors and blooms from June until frost. Nasturtiums are crimson, maroon, orange and white and blooms from June until frost.

BURLEY ASSOCIATION MONEY IN COUNTY BANKS

It is not generally known, but nevertheless true, that the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association has large sums of money to its credit in very nearly every bank in the burley district.

The banks of this county have been liberally patronized by the association, and now have on deposit substantial sums belonging to the association members. In a short time this money, together with a larger sum, will be paid out to the burley association.—Glasgow Times.

BOO HOO!

She—When I die you'll never find another woman like me.
He—Well, you can take it from me, I'm not going to try.

THE LIFE INSURANCE MAN (By Will H. Nicolet)

There's a fellow comes among you,
And he always comes to bless,
And you give yourself a boosting
When you boost him to success.
For he comes on wings of mercy,
Doing all the good he can.
He's the best friend of your loved ones,

It's the Life Insurance Man.
You are full of poor excuses:
"I'm too young, or I'm too old;
I'm a bachelor, don't need it;
Or, my wife will surely scold,
Or, I don't see how I can."

These are naught but tame excuses
To the Life Insurance Man.
"Can invest my money better?"
"I have not made up my mind;
"I'm afraid to—some investment
Years ago, came out behind;"
"On my home there is a mortgage;
When I pay it then I can;"
"God will take care of my widow,
Not the Life Insurance Man."
So he goes on with excuses,
Till one day he catches cold,
And pneumonia comes and puts him
'Neath the cemetery's hold,
And his little helpless widow
And his orphan kiddies can
Sit and wonder why dear daddy
Shunned the Life Insurance Man.

And up there beyond the river,
As he nears the golden gate,
He is made to stand and shiver
While he listens to his fate.

There before him stands the angel,
And as he quails before his look,
As he reads the earthly record
In the pages of the The Book.

"This man left a little widow
And a family of four.
There's a wolf already hanging
Gaunt and hungry 'round the door;

For he never left a dollar
For the little wife and clan;
He was always short and grouchy
With the Life Insurance Man."

He can never enter heaven
With this guilt upon his soul;
Even hades doesn't want him,
Is the verdict of the scroll.

BLANK VERSE

He had worked six months
In a ship yard,
And was worried
For fear they would hurt
The baby
The day of the baptism
When they hit him
Over the head with a bottle.

"My wife's tongue is so long she doesn't have to use a towel to wash her face."

"I beg your pardon," cried the convict,
as the governor passed his cell.

CONCERT UNITES

GREAT INVENTIONS

The radiophone, the motion picture machine and the Mills melody violin—the three greatest inventions of the recent past, were brought together recently at Chicago, and a sacred concert rendered which was picked up by the radio enthusiasts of twenty states.

While the program of the sacred concert was being given, motion pictures were made by the International News Reel, and upwards of 500,000 motion picture fans will see not alone the operations of the radio broadcasting station on the screen, but will also have the opportunity of witnessing the operation of the latest invention in the musical world.

The program which was arranged under the direction of two musical directors, Morgan L. Eastman, of the Westinghouse Radio Station KYW at Chicago, and Banks Cregler, was called the greatest musical program broadcasted so far by radio.

The Mills melody violin furnished the violin music that accompanied the singers, the harp, the organ and a four-part harmony solo on one of the group violins outshone the other numbers of the program.

Wilson J. Wethersee, program director of KYW Radio Station, announced the concert to the radio world, and as the program was about to proceed the broadcasting room resembled a concert hall and moving picture studio combined.

In the center of the broadcasting room, on the upper floor of a skyscraper in Chicago's loop, the various musical instruments were arranged around the huge microphone which receives the music and transports it by air channels to the world. At the left Herman Klum, pianist, sat at a concert grand piano, to his right sat Miss Shelly Jabine at an organ, and Joseph Stefel was seated at the Mills melody violin console, with five violins of the group control circled in front of the microphone.

When the signal was given for the program to proceed the following announcement was sent out over the radio:

"Tonight among other musical numbers it will be your pleasure to hear Mills melody violins, the latest musical invention, played over the radiophone, the latest device for transmitting sound by wireless.

"Mills melody violins are real violins, any number of which may be placed under the control of a single player. The musician sits at the keyboard, resembling that of any piano or organ. Every violin he is playing is at times perfectly under his control, so that he can execute the most difficult feats of violin playing with ease.

"On each violin all four strings can be played at once and four-part harmony with string quartet effect can be produced.

"So remarkable is this electrically controlled violin that the United States government has designated it as one of the eight greatest inventions of the decade.

"All the violin music this evening will be played on the Mills melody violins.

"While this program is being rendered a third great invention, the motion picture camera, is making a reel under the direction of Harold Brown, of the International News Reel."

TABB ON MAY 5 AND 6

Everyone who is a kodak fiend or a movie fan—and who isn't one or the other or both—will want to view the special film on the bill at the Tabb Theatre, May 5 and 6, entitled "A Movie Trip Through Filmland." Despite the publicity that has made the world so well acquainted with the actors and directors in the movies that a layman knows every time one of them is arrested for speeding, comparatively little is known even at this date of the way in which the reels of films themselves, without which the movies could not exist, are made.

The picture seeks to remedy this defect in popular knowledge, showing how the cotton, nitric acid and silver are combined to form the film, and doing so effectively and picturesquely. The manner in which the product is "spooled" and perforated for the sprocket wheels with absolute exactness, to prevent the picture from "jigging" on the screen, are among the interesting phases revealed as they take place at Kodak Park, under the direction of George Eastman.

If this picture were not entertaining in itself it would become so through the engaging little cartoons that illustrate each subtitle. And as the climax of this highly stimulating offering there is shown in graphic form the manner in which the 147,000 miles of film produced each year would reach six times around the world. The picture is notable in itself for the mammoth globe that has been constructed for this view.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce

of Harrison county, as a candidate for Representative in Congress, from the Ninth Kentucky District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

as a candidate for Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic party in the primary election to be held on Saturday, August 5, 1922.

WHO WILL BE THE NEXT GOVERNOR OF KENTUCKY?

We are safe in saying it will not be a Republican if the Democratic party in wise in the selection of a candidate. Harry Sommers, editor of the Elizabethtown News, would offer the honor to Colonel Robert Bingham, of Louisville. We would join with Mr. Sommers in his views that Colonel Bingham would be an acceptable candidate, and we go a step further and say we believe, should he allow his name to go before the people, that he would be acceptable alike to both Democrats and Republicans, but we doubt if he would consent to allow his name at this time to go before the people. In that event, to whom would we turn? Clark Madison and quite a number of other counties are looking to Judge W. R. Shackelford, circuit judge of the Twenty-fifth judicial district, as the proper man to head the state ticket. Judge Shackelford would make a strong candidate and, we believe, would be an easy winner. He is allied with none of the isms, and if nominated and elected would be governor.

FOR CONGRESS

In this issue by authority of Hon. W. J. Fields we place his announcement card for the Democratic nomination for congress at the head of these columns. Hon. Fields has represented this, the Ninth, district for a period of years and in asking this nomination he refers his constituency with pride to his official record, to what he has accomplished for his party, and with the party what he has accomplished for the nation.

Mr. Fields will through the columns of The Advocate give a digest of his stewardship and what he proposes for the years ahead. Hon. Fields needs no introduction from us and will undertake to go before the people during the interim to August 5 and tell them what he has done and what he proposes.

MADE POSTMASTER

Sam Hedden, of Shelbyville, one of the most prominent citizens and leading Republicans of Shelby county, has been appointed postmaster at Shelbyville. We congratulate our kinsman, and likewise do we congratulate another Republican kinsman, Mr. John Meeks, who has been made first assistant postmaster of the Louisville office. We are proud of our kinsfolk and rejoice with them in their attainments. Blood and qualifications will tell.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENT

WEEK SUGGESTIONS

In a one-minute talk with the postmaster, the following ways of assisting in making Postal Improvement Week a success were given. Every one is urged to follow these rules for one week and note the improvement in the mail service during that time:

Address mail plainly—don't use a lead pencil.

See that postage is fully prepaid.

Don't fail to place your return card on all mail.

Don't abbreviate—spell out in full name of city and state.

Always give street and number address.

Place stamp in extreme upper right-hand corner.

Add your full name and street address to all letters you write.

Don't take chances—look your letter over after preparing for mailing.

Don't fail to mail early.

NEW POSTMISTRESS

Mrs. Lillian Curry Duty, recently appointed as postmistress at Winchester, has assumed her duties, going in office yesterday. She was selected postmistress over several applicants for the position, and the choice was a wise one, as Mrs. Duty in addition to being extremely capable and energetic, has thoroughly familiarized herself with the requirements of the office. She was formerly a resident of this city and for a number of years was teacher in the city schools here.

BANQUET

The Y. W. C. A. will give their annual Mother and Daughter banquet on the evening of May 12 in the Sunday School room of the Methodist church.

EQUAL TO ALL EMERGENCIES

Little Thing Like the Running Out of Oil for the Engine Easily Overcome by Traveler.

How we all enjoy stories with a successful hero! No runner here of summer ever showed more ingenuity than Mr. Roy Chapman Andrews showed when he ran out of motor oil on the Gobi desert. We quote Mr. Andrews' exploit as he narrates it in Natural History:

We were returning to Kalgan from Urga, the capital of Mongolia, when we made our discovery. Since the oil had all leaked out of the cans, and we could not go much farther, we were debating what to do. Then as our car swung over the summit of a rise we saw the white tent and the grating canvas of an enormous caravan. Of course Mongols would have motioned us; why not use that for oil?

The caravan leader assured us that he had plenty, and in ten minutes a great pot of fat was warming over the fire. We poured it into the motor and proceeded merrily on our way, but there was one serious obstacle to our enjoying that ride. We had had little food for some time and were very hungry, and when the engine began to warm a most tantalizing odor of roast lamb rose from the car. Shortly I imagined that I could even smell mint sauce.

On another occasion when we were without car grease for the cars Mrs. Andrews sacrificed all the cold cream and vaseline that she had prepared for a summer in the field. We also substituted Mongol cheese with good results.—Youth's Companion.

FIRST AMERICAN GOLD COINS

What Are Known as Eagles Placed in Circulation in the Year 1792—Bird as a Symbol.

The first American gold coinage of eagles, half-eagles and quarter-eagles, of the value of $10, $5 and $2.50, respectively, was placed in circulation in 1792. Since that date the United States mints have turned out 117,623,305 double eagles, or $20 gold pieces; 49,611,250 eagles, 74,300,570 half-eagles and 15,560,298 quarter-eagles. One and three-dollar gold pieces were formerly coined, but they were discontinued in 1890.

The first coin called an eagle was used in Ireland in the Thirteenth century, and was so called from the figure of an eagle impressed upon it, but it was made of base metal. The standard of the eagle was borne by the ancient Persians, and the Romans also carried gold and silver eagles as emblems and sometimes represented them with a thunderbolt in their talons.

Charlemagne adopted the double-headed eagle as the standard of the holy Roman empire. The eagle was the standard of Napoleon I and Napoleon III, as well as Austria, Prussia and Russia.

An Easy Problem.

"May She Invite Him Into the House?" asks an advertisement for the Book of Etiquette; and explains the illustration thus: "They have just returned from a dance. It is rather late, but the folks are still up. Should she invite him into the house or say good night to him at the door? Should he ask permission to go into the house with her? Should she ask him to call at some other time? One answer crowds upon another's heels, so fast they follow. First, we shouldn't take seriously the laws of etiquette laid down by anybody who, speaking of the not-yet-retired parents, says 'the folks are still up.' What sort of girl has 'folks'? Dear, dear! not to say, 'E, f, e, l! Second, if it's the kind of dance now current the folks wouldn't be still up; they'd be up already. And as to what she should do, no book ever published can help her. The questions are all local issues, depending on her and him. Our solution is that she should ask him in to breakfast.—New York World.

Starboard and Port.

The ancient rule of the road was to keep to the right and drive from the left, because the first animals driven in civilized countries were cattle and the driver, walking beside his oxen, plied his gad with the right hand.

Italian sailors made starboard the right side of a ship in their earliest voyages. The term was evolved by the British from "esta horde," meaning this side, while larboard came from the helmsman, first probably with gestures of the hand accompanying the call.

In heavy weather, and under other adverse conditions, the two terms became confounded frequently in speech. Larboard was dropped and in its place port was employed, for port meant port wine, which is red, and red is the color of the light on that side of the ship.

Mystery Explained.

In Lake Manitoba there is a little island from which issues a mysterious sound. The Indians supposed this island to be the home of Manitobah, a speaking god, and from this is derived the name of the lake and the province. The real cause of the sound is the heaving of the waves upon the huge pebbles lining the shore. On the northern coast of the island is a long low cliff, composed of fine-grained limestone, which, beneath the stroke of a hammer, rings like steel. The waves breaking at the foot of the cliff cause the falling limestone fragments to clash one against the other, and the sound thus produced resembles the chiming of distant bells.

FRANKLIN'S GOLD-AMM BATH

Manly Philosopher Was One of the Earliest American Admirers of the Open Window.

The cold bath in the morning is a social fetich that makes two clear divisions of mankind—the thoroughly virtuous who do not shrink from the full rigors and the Laodiceans who play with the hot water tap. As a custom it may be peculiarly English, but one hears less of a variation of it that has respectable authority, says the Manchester Guardian.

Benjamin Franklin, while representing the American colonies in London, wrote in one of his informing letters to a French correspondent that the tub of cold water bath always appeared to me as too violent, and I have found it much more agreeable to my constitution to bathe in another element—I mean cold air. With this view I rise early almost every morning and sit in my chamber, without any clothes on whatever, half an hour or an hour, according to the season, either reading or writing. The practice is not in the least painful, but, on the contrary, agreeable, and if I return to bed afterward, before I dream myself, as it sometimes happens, I make a supplement to my night's rest of one or two hours of the most pleasing sleep that can be imagined.

Franklin was sixty-two at the time. He had still to live twenty-two of the most active years of his extraordinary career, so that in his case cold-air baths seem to have done no harm. Franklin was before his time in his belief in fresh air, and he wrote some savage things about the "acrophobia" that at present distresses weak minds and makes them choose to be stifled and poisoned rather than leave open the window of a bedchamber or put down the glass of a coach.

FLOWER-POT AS BRIDEGROOM

Unique Ceremony Which Transforms Chinese Girl Into a Full-Fledged and Privileged Widow.

China is still a land of strange customs, one of the most curious being the ceremony of a flower-pot marriage.

When the man whom a Chinese girl is to marry dies shortly before the date fixed for the wedding, the grief-stricken bride-elect sometimes takes a vow never to marry. Should she do so, she goes through the ceremony of wedding an ordinary flower-pot. She is now considered a widow, and upon the parents of her intended husband falls the responsibility of maintaining her. Usually she goes to live with them.

In many cases, especially where the family is poor, great sacrifices are necessary in order that the daughter-in-law (as she is now regarded) may be properly cared for. But the parents have no option in the matter. And, actually, they have no desire to shirk their responsibilities, for the faithfulness of the "widow" brings great honor to the bridegroom's family, it being considered quite a disgrace should the bride-elect not wish to go through the ceremony of marrying the flower-pot.

In the days before China was a republic, the emperor, upon the facts being brought to his notice, had a handsome monument erected in commemoration of the "widow's" faithfulness.

Old Krook.

Krook is the name of a rather prominent but most uncanny character in Dickens' novel, "Bleak House," which has much to do with the then dilatory procedure of the Court of Chancery. The system Dickens describes ceased to exist many years.

Krook is the proprietor of a rag and bone warehouse, where everything seems to be bought and nothing sold. He is a grasping drunkard, who eventually dies of spontaneous combustion, that is, he is so saturated with liquor that he takes fire and is consumed. In a note to this chapter of "Bleak House" Dickens cites a case of spontaneous combustion that took place in Paris, France, and which, he said, was well verified by medical authority. It was probably from that case that Dickens obtained the idea which he made use of in describing Krook's wonderful death.

Purpose.

Ambition is more than a wish; it is desire, intensified into determined purpose. All that is needed for the accomplishment of our ambitions is a desire so strong that we will sacrifice whatever may stand in the way of our success. The law of compensation never fails. If we would gain one thing we must give up another. How many people have you known who complain of failure through bad luck, when your own knowledge of them tells you that their downfall came through lack of really trying? They were not willing to forego pleasures or extravagances which interfered with their success.

Cooking Chicken.

Old saying is, no one can eat a quail a day for 90 days. H. J. Jahuar, Baptist missionary in the Congo, hasn't tested the quail theory. But he ate chicken three times a day for two years.

Don't pity Jahuar for monotony of diet.

Pity his wife, who had to plan the meals to make them attractive. She evolved 22 ways of preparing chicken. No man has a task as difficult as his wife has, in planning meals. Doubt it? Ask her.

Senior Play a Success

On Thursday evening, April 27, at the Tabb Theatre the senior class of the Mt. Sterling High School gave its annual play, "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy." The large and appreciative audience attending testified to our civic pride and loyalty to our public schools.

The members of the cast, typical, twentieth century high school students, were a decided credit to the institution and homes they represented. Their native abilities were supplemented by a lot of hard work, and much praise is due them for their perseverance and achievement. Miss Louise Orear interpreted the difficult character of Lady Crackenthorpe with dignity and insight unusual for one of her years. Little Miss Anne Prewitt in the role of Peggy O'Mara captured more hearts than Jimmy Keppel's. She is a real little actress. It is most difficult to act and be natural at the same time.

Many a professional would give much to attain the unaffected manner that made William Thompson such a complete success as Jimmy Keppel. "Scientific research" and "courting a widow" coupled together make a situation not easy to cope with. We must take off our hats to Duerson Prewitt, who, as Lord Anthony Crackenthorpe, managed the affair with so much skill. The part of Mrs. O'Mara was ably taken by Miss Ruth Perry. Her performance was characterized by self-possession and ease. Francis Drennon as Major Archie Phipps played a difficult part in a creditable manner—doing everything "for the good of the family."

Miss Alma Cockrell, who was Miss Millicent Keppel in the play, was much complimented for the alert way with which she sustained her role. The part of Lady Colquhoun was exceedingly well taken by Miss Lillian Crall. Tom Coons as Jack Menzie, "Tommy" Rooney as Lucas, and Cecil Davis as Parker were good in their respective parts.

The Rev. Charles Ray and some of the members of the school orchestra added greatly to the evening's entertainment. The generous applause bestowed on Mt. Sterling's appreciation of their music.

Special mention should be made of other members of the class, some not in the cast, who worked hard for success of the play. The tickets had to be sold—did you ever try to sell tickets? The members of this committee were Misses Elsie Osbourne, Mary Morris, Alice Humphreys and "Tommy" Rooney. Other committees were: Advertising, Misses Mary Humphreys, Shirley Tout, Myrtle Richardson and Clayton Smoot; properties, Misses Katherine Vanarsdell and Margaret Guthrie; Messrs. Duerson Prewitt and Raymond Donohue; program, Misses Louise Smathers, Hazel Sullivan and Frances Faulkner. The six weeks of coaching was the work of Mrs. Ben R. Turner.

A goodly sum was realized by the class of 1922 to purchase equipment for the new school building.

HON. H. C. DUFFY IN CITY

The latter part of the week Hon. H. C. Duffy, of Cynthia, candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress, was in the city mixing with the people. Hon. Duffy has been through several of the counties and expresses himself as very much pleased with the prospects of a successful campaign. He said he expected to be in each of the counties composing the Ninth district before August 5 and that he would discuss the political issues of the day with which congress has to deal.

COLORED LEGION TEAM GOOD

The Mt. Sterling colored American Legion has one of the best base ball teams in the state this year. They are winning every game they play. In the game with North Middletown Cubs last Sunday the score was 9 to 5. The game was played on the local diamond.

MORE NAMES SUGGESTED

Additional names suggested for Mt. Sterling's new hotel within the past few days are "Hotel Hoffman" and "Piedmont Hotel," either one of which would be quite appropriate, the first being in honor of H. G. Hoffman, the man who started the movement for a new hotel, and the latter a name implying at the foot of the mountains.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to the doctors, nurses and many friends of Dr. J. F. Lockhart who were so thoughtful and kind during his long illness and were so nice to us in our bereavement.—Mrs. J. R. Lockhart and Family.

DEATH CLAIMS YOUNG WOMAN

Saturday at 12 o'clock Mrs. Minerva Tucker, aged 21 years, wife of Henry Tucker, Peyton Lick, died of pneumonia. She is survived by her husband, one child, a son three years old, and father and mother, Millard Vice and wife. Funeral services were held at Peyton Lick church on Sunday by Rev. Russell, pastor of the Little Rock church, with burial at the graveyard of the church. A neighbor speaking of her said, "No better woman ever lived than Mrs. Tucker." We could not write an eulogy more impressive or that had more comforting meaning than those words.

Produce Review

Production of butter is showing a gradual increase, but as the demand has been unusually good, markets have advanced further. The rains we have had should make better pastures, so that from now on production will increase rapidly, and the tendency of the market will be to work to a lower level.

The surplus of eggs in the large markets this past week has been extremely heavy, and for that reason the amount going into storage has increased materially, causing the market to work to a lower basis. Storers, as a rule, expect to buy May eggs cheaper than April's, and the immediate prospects are that prices will show further decline.

Live poultry has been moving in normal quantities for this time of the year, but the demand for dressed stock is improving and the tendency of the market is higher.

GARDEN SEED WANTED

Contributions of garden seed for large garden of the Mary Chiles Hospital will be gratefully received. Bring what you want to give to the Mt. Sterling National Bank.—W. L. Kilpatrick, Trustee, Mary Chiles Hospital.

GROWERS RECEIVE BETTER PROFIT FROM WOOL POOLS

Realizing that there may be as much as 15 cents a pound variation in price in different grades of wool, all Texas growers last year took advantage of information regarding grades and grading given them by extension workers employed co-operatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the state college of agriculture, through the organization of county and state pools. Through the wool pools the growers were enabled to attract larger buyers and obtain higher prices offered for well-graded wool in large quantities.

Since the formation of the state pool in Texas last year, large quantities of graded wool and mohair have been sold directly to the mills, bringing a greater profit to the growers than when sold to local buyers and speculators. About $50,000 pounds of wool and mohair were sold through the state pool.

PORTIA WITH A RECORD

Miss Pauline F. M. Floyd, of Washington, D. C., the youngest lawyer ever admitted to the bar, now has the distinction of being the youngest lawyer to argue a case before the U. S. Supreme Court. Twenty-four years old, she has practiced law three years, being graduated before she was twenty-one. The young woman has never lost a case.

THE SICK

Miss Anne Clay is quite sick and is confined to her bed.

Mrs. T. G. Denton, who has been confined to her home for the past two weeks, is able to be up and about her work.

Mrs. Edmund Robinson, who has been ill for the past week, has been admitted to the Mary Chiles Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. T. Leming Faulkner, who recently underwent a very serious operation at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington, is now at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Baker, for several weeks before returning to her home at Hazard.

LUCKY ONES

The number of cakes of soap and washing powder in window was 666. First prize, one box of Lenox soap, went to Mr. Pete Cockrell; second and third prizes, 25 cakes Lenox soap and 25 washing powder, Mrs. Hattie Howell, 660, and Mrs. Stanley Murphy, 650.—The Fair.

RELIGIOUS

Rev. R. N. Richardson, of Winchester, and Rev. W. A. Wiles, pastor of the Main street Methodist church, Winchester, are holding a series of meetings at the Jeffersonville Methodist church, beginning each evening at 7:30 o'clock. The revival will last throughout the week and the general public is cordially invited to attend.

FRANK HOLLEARN DEAD

A message received here Sunday announced the death of Frank Hollearn, which occurred at his home in Chicago Saturday night, following a brief illness. He is survived by five children and three sisters, Mrs. J. J. Kern and Mrs. Thomas McRohan, of this city, and Mrs. Richard Clarke, of Sharpsburg. The body was brought to this city at noon today and interred in St. Thomas cemetery.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. George Stapleton, of Winchester, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a fine son, born Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Freeland in this city. The child has been named John Samuels.

MESSAGE BRINGS SAD NEWS

On Saturday a message was received here from McIntosh, Fla., announcing the sudden death of Mrs. Everett Barkley from apoplexy. Mrs. Barkley was Miss Artie Baldwin and was married to Mr. Barkley about seven years ago. She was about fifty years old and was an excellent woman and faithful Christian. She is survived by her husband.

MANY HENS SCRATCH FOR LICE AND NOT FOR FEED

"Make the hens scratch for their feed and not for lice," has been suggested by poultrymen at the College of Agriculture as a good watchword for Kentucky farmers during the coming summer. At least 75 per cent of the flocks in the state are troubled with lice and mites each summer, this condition not only lowering the egg production of the hens, but also weakening the vitality of the birds so that they are more apt to become infected with disease, it was pointed out.

This is a good time of the year to get ahead of many of the lice and mites, which multiply more rapidly in hot weather, by having a spring cleaning of the poultry house, the poultrymen say. Such cleanings have been found to be effective means of reducing the number of pests in the houses and on the hens.

Lice live on chickens while mites stay on the roosts and in the cracks of the house and trouble the chickens only when they go to roost or are on the nest, J. R. Smyth, one of the poultrymen, pointed out. This makes it necessary to follow different methods in ridding the flock of the pests.

Sodium fluoride which can be purchased at any drug store is used either as a powder or a dip and has been found to be an effective means of controlling lice. When it is used as a dip for hens one pound is added to ten gallons of lukewarm water. It is used full strength when the hens are dusted with it.

In controlling mites, it is necessary first to clean the house thoroughly and then spray it with a three to five per cent solution of some good stock dip. The roost poles are painted with a full strength solution of the same material or crude oil.

STATE BANKS WIN

Kentucky state banks have won the first round of their fight to prevent the state tax commission inspecting their files and records to find what securities have been deposited with them as collateral on notes to be checked against the tax return of borrowing customers of the banks. Judge Robert L. Stout, of the Franklin circuit court, overruled a demurrer of the commission to the petition of the Capital Trust Company, Frankfort, seeking to enjoin the commission.

WEED DESTRUCTION IN MAY IS EASIER THAN IN AUGUST

It is easier to kill a thousand young weeds in May than a dozen old ones in August, soils and crops specialists at the College of Agriculture declare. Immediate steps, therefore, will be helpful in preventing these robbers from stealing much moisture and plant food from crops later in the season, it is said.

"A ton of weeds growing on an acre will deprive a profitable crop of about 450 pounds of water during the growing season," according to R. E. Stephenson, one of the specialists. "This amount of moisture is required by a ton of average farm crops, but weeds take an equal amount. In addition, weeds of ten make the difference between success and failure in getting good yields largely because the crop has been robbed of plant food.

"Successful weed control depends upon beginning early before the plants get a start. On cultivated land early breaking is desirable. This gives time for many weeds to be germinated and destroyed before the crop is seeded. A harrow used when weeds are just sprouting will do more effective work than plowing after they get a start.

"Constant tillage is essential in controlling weeds that grow from underground stems. Two years of clean cultivation will destroy most of the stems of such weeds. Many weeds reproduce from both the stem and seed, in the latter case the seed being especially abundant in many cases. A single plant of rag weed has been found to produce more than 19,000 seeds, pigeon grass more than 140,000, lamb quarters more than 600,000, barnyard grass more than 1,000,000, and tumble weed more than 6,000,000. When seeds are produced so abundantly, only a few plants are required to seed a large acreage.

"This makes it important to prevent weeds from seeding. Few of them decay in less than three years, the seeds of some weeds having produced plants after being buried for more than 10 years."

CO-OPERATIVE SELLING BOOSTS POTATO PROFITS

McCracken county farmers have used co-operative marketing to a good advantage in disposing of their sweet potato crop, according to the county agent. More than 2,000 bushels have been shipped out by this method at a net profit of 15 cents a bushel above local prices.

"STAR BATHS"

We have heard of a wise old doctor who prescribed for his nervous patients who were fretted, and anxious, and troubled, what he lightly called "star baths." His patients were directed to read astronomy; nothing very difficult, or erudite—just simple books, beginners' books, even.

"A woman who can read an hour a day of easy astronomy," he said, "and in addition to that can look at the stars for ten minutes at night, before she goes to sleep, and can then still hold onto her little fretful troubles, is pretty sick. But, to tell the truth, I don't often find people as sick as that. Most of them benefit enormously by my treatment of what I call 'star baths.' They come out of them refreshed, and for a time at least are self-forgetful, and have a better sense of proportion."

It is not so much merely material astronomy, as we understand it, that constitutes the old doctor's "star baths," as a sort of spiritual acquaintance with the stars. We have seen people study birds with an opera glass, who cared more for the classification of species than for the thrush's note in the twilight; we have seen people read mathematical astronomy and study star maps, who could point out to you every constellation, and who knew the name and position of every important star, who still somehow managed to miss what we believe is the full benefit of star study. In other words, though he did not exactly say so, we believe that the wise physician intended that the "star baths" should be, so to speak, warm, not cold.

The barber was shaving himself. But why the argument? He was trying to talk himself into having a massage.

American Legion News

Where organized labor stands regarding the payment of a bonus has been expressed by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address before the Connecticut state federation at New Haven. President Gompers strongly favors the American Legion's adjusted compensation measure, and said: "The American Federation of Labor believes that the men who risked their lives, gave up their jobs and are now out of work should be compensated. Business would be revived and an enormous amount of money put into circulation while the public at large would be affected financially very little if congress passed a just taxation act."

"Keel ze robbair," will be a brand new French battle cry this summer, for Paris reports that the French capital is to be treated to league base ball, a la Americaine, box score and all. Four teams, two made up of Yankee war veterans and two selected from French athletic clubs, will make up the league which the American Legion in Paris is forming. The legionnaires also will instruct in the proper throwing of pop bottles. Games will be played, starting May 20, on the Bagatelle grounds in the Bois de Boulogne.

"Ex-service men of the house of representatives are determined to investigate the alleged fraudulent transactions of the war and navy departments and to see that prosecutions are waged to bring to justice these individuals who by technical means or otherwise defrauded the government of huge sums of money during and after the close of the war," says an announcement made at Washington by the legislative committee of the American Legion. Two house committees have been appointed to investigate all contracts and expenditures made by the two departments.

As a measure of preparedness for another flood, American Legion men of Pueblo, Colo., are establishing two rescue stations outside the flood territory where ropes, boats and other equipment will be kept.

On one of their regular tours of Boston hospitals members of the American legion and the Harvard glee club stopped at the bed of a soldier who was dying. The question of whether or not the collegians should sing was answered by the veteran: "Sure, it will be a happy memory to carry across with me."

About a month ago forty St. Louis men bought pages of newspaper advertising to announce their opposition to the adjusted compensation, adding that they were world war veterans. Missouri is paying a state war bonus, however, and the American Legion, distributing bonus application blanks found that these men were among the first to apply for the state compensation.

If Seattle young men become sea sick at club meetings, they will have an honest alibi. An American Legion post has bought one of the U. S. shipping board's wooden hulls, moored it to a dock and will use it as a legion club house.

One of the most novel stunts in jurisprudence took place at a mock trial conducted by the American Legion at Birmingham, Ala., and presided over by Judge H. B. Aernathy, nationally known jurist, to instruct new citizens. The talesmen

A woman in Tennessee who saw Marshal Foch while he was touring the United States under the auspices of the American Legion has written the marshal asking him to send her one of his worn out shirts. She wants to make an apron, she declares, and would like to have it autographed.

Even the movie sats know how it feels, the American Legion of Minneapolis, Minn., reports. J. Warren Kerrigan, of Hollywood, has written the state bonus board of Minnesota, asking that his $285 war compensation be "hurried up and paid." Kerrigan enlisted as a buck private and was discharged a second lieutenant.

Poor families in Nashville, Tenn., will be provided with ice this summer by British posts of the American Legion. The service men reported scores of indigent families unable to keep food and milk for babies during the sweltering weather.

On July Fourth all persons in Seattle, Wash., who have reached the age of 21 during the preceding year will take a public oath of allegiance to the United States and the constitution, under the auspices of the Washington University post of the American Legion.

The Distinguished Service Order of the American Legion has been conferred on Marshal Joffre of France by Hanford MacNider, commander, in Washington. The highest legion decoration has been awarded only four other persons, one of them Marshal Foch.

To find a solution for unemployment of Canadian war veterans, the Great War Veterans' Association, Dominion replica of the American Legion, has petitioned the government to summon a national economic conference.

BLOAT THREATENS CATTLE AS CLOVER OPENS BLOOMS

Clover blout will be claiming the usual number of victims among Kentucky cattle in the near future, livestock men at the College of Agriculture say. The trouble is most prevalent during the spring of the year when alfalfa and clover, especially the red and white varieties, are in bloom, it is said. Farmers in a number of sections already have reported the appearance of the bloat in their herds.

Preventative measures are said to be important in controlling the trouble. It has been recommended that farmers turn their animals on new pastures gradually and that they give them a full feed of hay before turning them into pastures after they have been confined and fed dry feeds all winter. It also is well to have some hay in a pasture containing white or red clover since the animals instinctively eat hay and relieve themselves when they begin to bloat.

In cases of acute bloating, it is recommended that the sick animals be given one quart of a one and one-half per cent solution of formalin followed by placing a wooden block in the animal's mouth and gentle exercise. If the animal can be gotten up. Formalin, which can be purchased at any drug store, can be made into the proper solution for drenching by adding one-half ounce of it to one quart of water.

After the animal has been relieved it is well to drench it with one pound of Epsom salts and one-half ounce of ground ginger in a pint of tepid water.

"My supper's cold!"
He swore with vim,
And then she made it
Hot for him!

SOMETHING WRONG

Little Willie—Ma, is pop taking you out to dinner tonight?
Mother—Yes, and then to the theater, my dear.
Little Willie—What's the matter?

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which gripped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive."

Thedford's

ANOTHER POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL?

Miss Isabelle Rockefeller

With the arrival in New York of little Violette Helene de Talleyrand, daughter of the former Anna Gould, and sometimes called the poor little rich girl, in charge of a maid, come renewed reports of domestic difference between the Duke and his American wife. Little Violette was almost sent to Ellis Island on her arrival, being rescued at the crucial moment by her aunt, Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, formerly Helen Gould. While Violette was being detained, Miss Isabelle Rockefeller, daughter of Percy Rockefeller, made entry on her return to America without difficulty.

preparing ground for the corn. The woodpecker is here, it is pointed out, which to the "old timer" means now is the time for corn.

Prospects for a good fruit crop are excellent in Central and Western Kentucky, but in the eastern end of the state hopes for a bumper production were blighted. Strawberry plants were the chief sufferers, but another set of blossoms is expected.

Conditions thus far have been disadvantageous for planting potatoes, but much planting has been done and indications are that the tuber crop this year will be large. Many potatoes of the first planting have rotted in the ground, and such fields are being replanted.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

What a lot more happiness there'd be in the world if we didn't have any cash registers—that is, if we didn't need any cash registers. Cash registers keep men honest, but they don't make them honest. Every one of us seems to have a little kink of dishonesty somewhere and so we seem to need some kind of a checking machine. But it's awfully silly! Since we've got to be honest why not realize the honesty that's forced on us has no power to bring us joy. We sort of bunk ourselves, don't we? If we get a real honesty like we get real religion and throw away the cash register, then we have all sorts of fun and just as much money—maybe more. Spurious honesty doesn't mean so much after all. It's got to be real to be worth while.

MILLIONS AND ADVERTISING

Extraordinary precautions are taken by the police to guard John D. Rockefeller, Jr., even when he starts out to attend his famous Bible class. Indeed, every now and then the detectives are compelled to invade the church to protect the young man from possible violence. To thousands of persons the name Rockefeller is inflammatory. The constructive charities, the elvish helpfulness of this family are lost to light in the greater vision of a money grabbing octopus that for years has been planted in the back of popular imagination. Truly the millions of the oil king have brought more terror than happiness, all of which condition is largely due to the exclusiveness with which the elder Rockefeller lived for years. To the public Rockefeller was not a personality. He was an institution. He forbade contact with his fellow beings. His photograph was never seen. He never spoke to the people or for the people through the only means of communication, the newspaper. He held aloof and became hated and despised. It was not until some thoughtful person impressed the old man with the value of advertising that the bars were let down and the people permitted to know something of the Rockefeller life and activities, and then some of the people began to understand. But even so the old man started too late to reap reward for whatever of constructive work he may have done. Indeed, it is doubtful if his son will see the days of honor that to some extent at least may be his due. Truly the sins of the father are visited on the children even to the third and fourth generation. Never has there been a more striking lesson in advertising than the gradual change of the public mind toward the Rockefellers since they tore the mask of secrecy from their lives. The happiness, yes, even the life of the millionaire, today is dependent on the power of advertising.

GIVE THE MOTHERS A REST

The movement to give the mothers of the nation a rest of one day a week is properly gaining impetus, and the thought has taken root none too soon. If the money wasted in dues and assessments for the thousand and one societies and organizations that seem to attract the "finer" could be applied even in part to giving the American mother a tithe of recreation untold good would come to the country. There are two thousand mothers of dependent fatherless children in the state of Illinois alone; mothers now on the state charity roll, and goodness knows how many thousands in the other states. The pittance they receive spells nothing save life and slavery. The responsibility of these mothers prohibits work other than the care of these little ones, which is nerve racking, and under existing pressure all but intolerable. The children's mouths are ever open like the beaks of baby birds for nourishing food that must be prepared; Willie's stockings must be darned in time for school, Mary's apron is torn, and there is the washing, the ironing, the sweeping, the dishwashing and the rest of the daily routine with never a moment's rest. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals would prosecute the person who worked a horse as the American mother is worked. We find numbers of good folk who are ready to acknowledge this fact, but few ready to take hold to practically correct it. The mothers of the nation should have at least one day's rest in seven, if our women's clubs want to exercise a real function they will get behind this thought. Perhaps there is a chance for some practical work right in our own home town.
